

BLOCK & BULL

— THE CRYPTO BEGINNER PLAYBOOK · 2026 EDITION

First click to a real portfolio.

Open your first account, lock it down, and build from there: a monthly SIP, staking that actually pays, airdrops done safely, and a balanced portfolio. With a room of traders beside you the whole way.

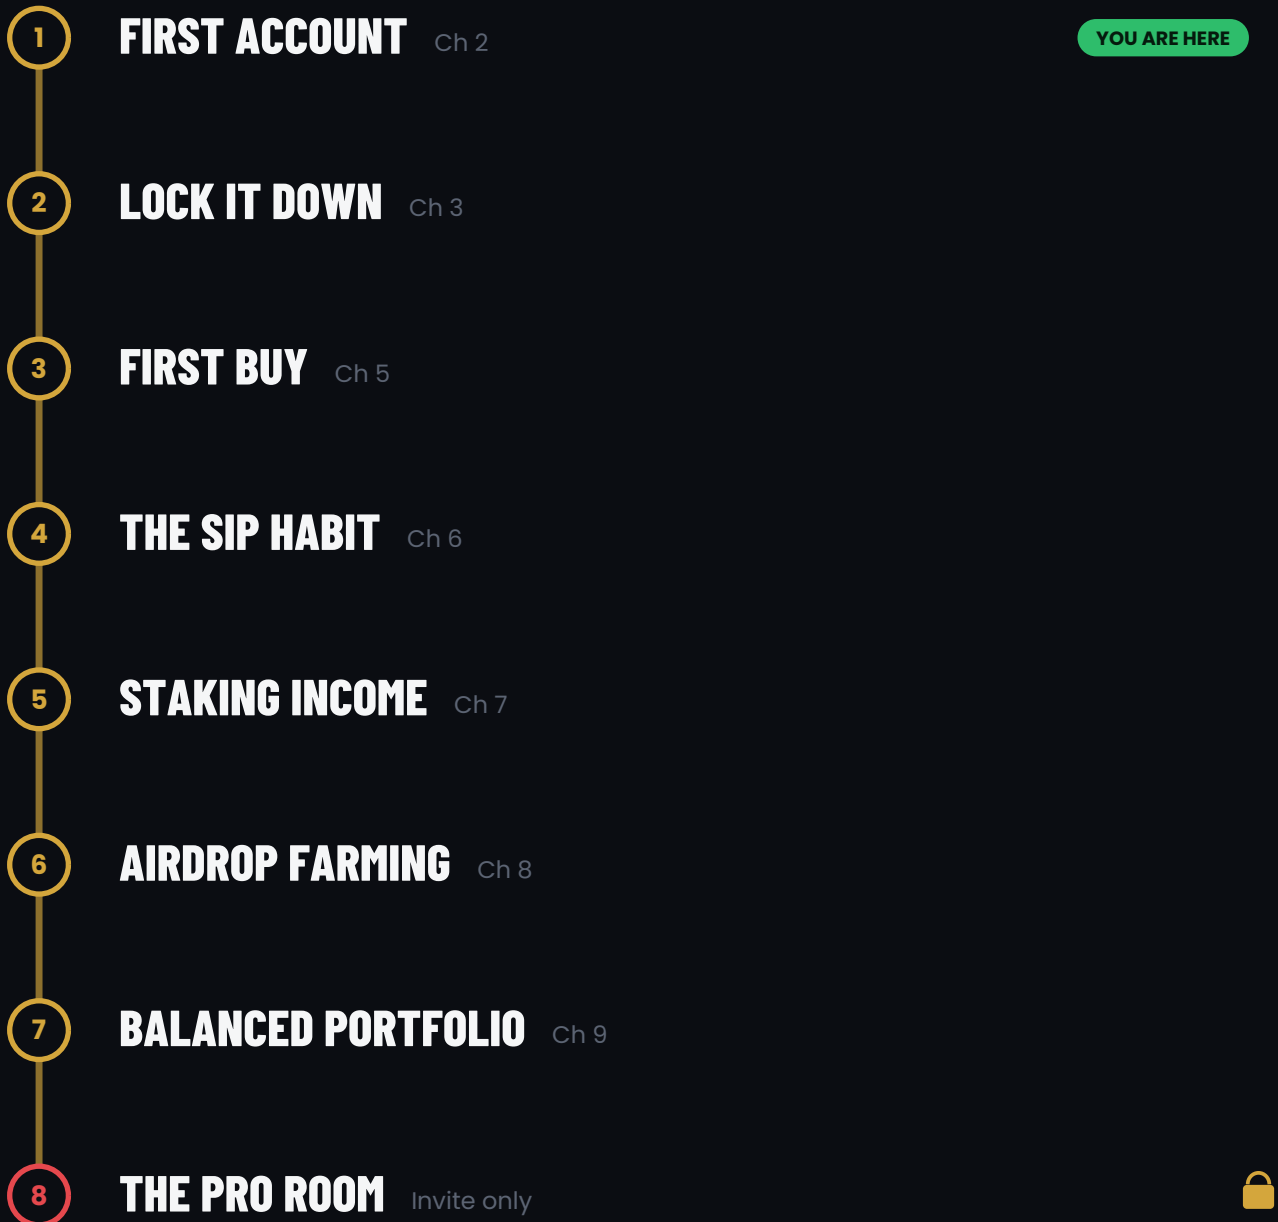

- ✓ Your first account in 10 minutes
- ✓ Security before money
- ✓ SIP and staking, the quiet compounders
- ✓ Airdrop farming, free and safe
- ✓ Portfolio balancing that survives a bad month
- ✓ The room, and how the pros use it

READ IN THE ROOM · FREE

Educational content. Crypto is unregulated and can be highly risky. Not financial advice. 18+

Your route, one page.

Eight stops. You are at the first one. Most people reach stop five inside a month. The last stop is earned, not bought. And you are not walking it alone: the free room walks this exact route out loud every day, in English and Hindi.

Stop one starts today.

What this is, and how we get paid.

This playbook is free and stays free. Here is the deal in plain words, because trust is the whole business.

WHAT YOU GET

- ✓ The market, explained daily, EN + HI
- ✓ Calls and setups, discussed in the
- ✓ room with full context. NFA, always
- ✓ Portfolio clinics, a human walks yours
- ✓ Airdrop and staking guides, free
- ✓ A weekly live session, open to all

HOW WE GET PAID

When you open an exchange account through our link, the exchange shares a slice of its fee with us. Costs you nothing extra. It is what keeps the room, this playbook and the guides free, and it is also your ticket into the Pro Room later.

Also in the family, and not in this PDF

-  Airdrop drops calendar · updated weekly, pro room
-  Portfolio clinic worksheet · bring your numbers, pro room
-  Weekly live call notes · every session, pro room

Everything in the left column is free, forever, no account needed. Everything behind a lock opens the day you take the pro seat, and the last two pages of this book show exactly how that works.

The free room needs no account and no money.

What an exchange actually is.

A marketplace app. You bring rupees, other people bring coins, the exchange matches you and takes a tiny fee. That is the whole thing.

Three words you will meet in the first hour

SPOT buying the actual coin, paid in full. Your lane for now

PAIR what you trade for what. BTC/INR is bitcoin priced in rupees

ORDER your instruction: market means now, limit means at my price

That is most of the jargon already. Everything else in the app is one of these three wearing a costume, and the room translates the costumes daily.

This gets discussed live, every day.

Before money: the 6-switch lockdown.

Fifteen minutes once. It removes nearly every way beginners actually lose coins.

✓ App-based 2FA on
Google Authenticator or similar. SMS can be hijacked

✓ Anti-phishing code set real emails will carry your word, fakes will not ✓ Withdrawal whitelist on coins can only leave to addresses you pre-approve

✓ Fresh email, unique password
this account shares credentials with nothing

✓ Official app, checked twice typo-squat apps are the oldest trick there is

✓ Nobody ever needs your codes not support, not us, not anyone. Ever

✗ "Support" DMs you first, or a QR asks you to log in somewhere new:
it is a scam, every time.

Money in, and what fees quietly take.

Funding is the easy part: UPI or bank transfer on the deposit page, often instant. Fees are the part worth two minutes of attention.

The same 10,000 rupee trade, two fee tiers

₹10 per trade · 0.10% taker, typical default

₹5.50 per trade · 0.055% with maker orders

Ten rupees sounds like nothing. Trade weekly for a year and the difference between tiers is a few thousand rupees, silently. Limit orders usually pay the cheaper maker fee, and chapter 5 shows you how to place one.

One habit now: write your entries down

Date, coin, amount, why. One line each. The note outperforms memory every single time the market gets loud.

Fee questions answered daily, with screenshots.

Leverage OFF, and it stays off for now

BUY BTC

Market = now, at the going price. Fine for a first ₹500.

Start lunch—money small. The lesson is the point.

Leverage multiplies both directions. Day one has no business here.

After it fills, you own bitcoin. That screenshot is a milestone.

That is genuinely all a first buy is. The skill is not the click, it is the sizing, and the sizing rule is simple: money you can learn with, never money you need.

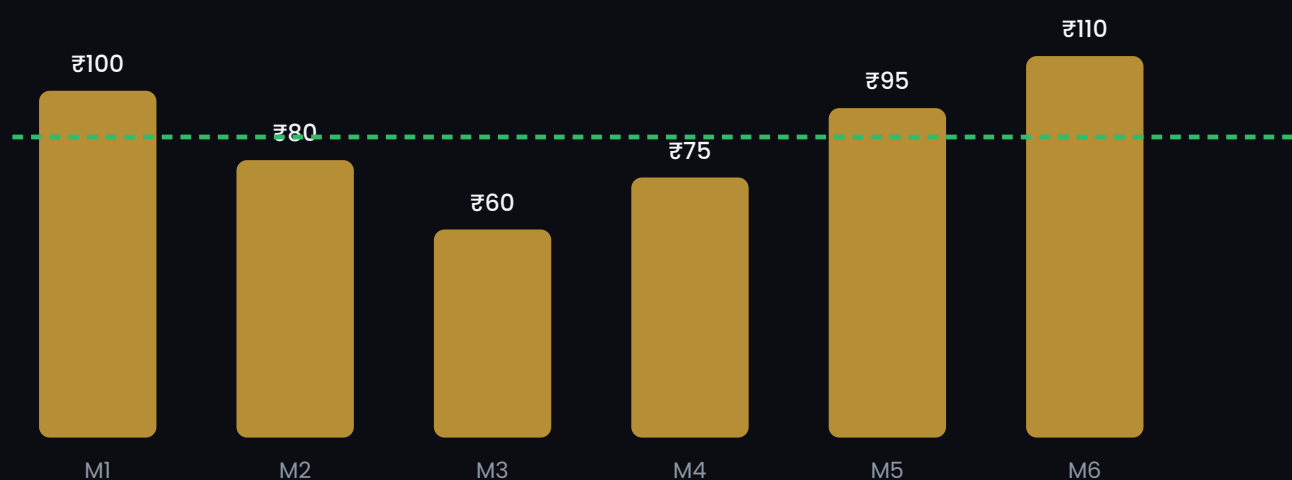

Post your first-buy screenshot. The room celebrates these.

SIP, but for crypto.

The same boring trick that builds mutual fund wealth works here: a fixed amount, same date every month, regardless of price. The jargon is rupee cost averaging. The point is that it removes the worst investor in the room, your timing.

2,000 rupees a month, six months, price swinging dashed line = your average cost. Well under the top, no forecasting needed

- ✓ Same date monthly. The calendar decides, not the chart
- ✓ Dips buy you more units. That is the feature, not the bug
- ✓ Twelve months minimum before judging it

SIP day is the 1st in the room. We post ours.

Staking: the passive earning layer.

Some coins pay you for helping run the network. Lock them up, earn a yield in the same coin. Done on the exchange it is two taps, and the yield is real, not a marketing number, when you know its source.

Flexible vs locked, the only choice that matters

FLEXIBLE

withdraw anytime · lower rate · right default for year one

LOCKED

higher rate · coins frozen for the term · fine later, not first

Honesty row: double-digit APYs are usually paid in a coin that can fall faster than the yield accrues. The number to respect is the coin first, the rate second.

Current staking rates get posted and argued about weekly.

Airdrop farming: paid to be early.

New projects hand out free tokens to early users to bootstrap a community. Showing up early, with a little activity, has paid real money across whole cycles of launches. It costs time, not capital, which makes it the best-value homework in crypto.

- 1 Fresh wallet
never your main one
- 2 Use the new thing
testnets, swaps, small tasks
- 3 Stay consistent
weekly touches beat one binge
- 4 Claim day
tokens land, you decide: keep or sell

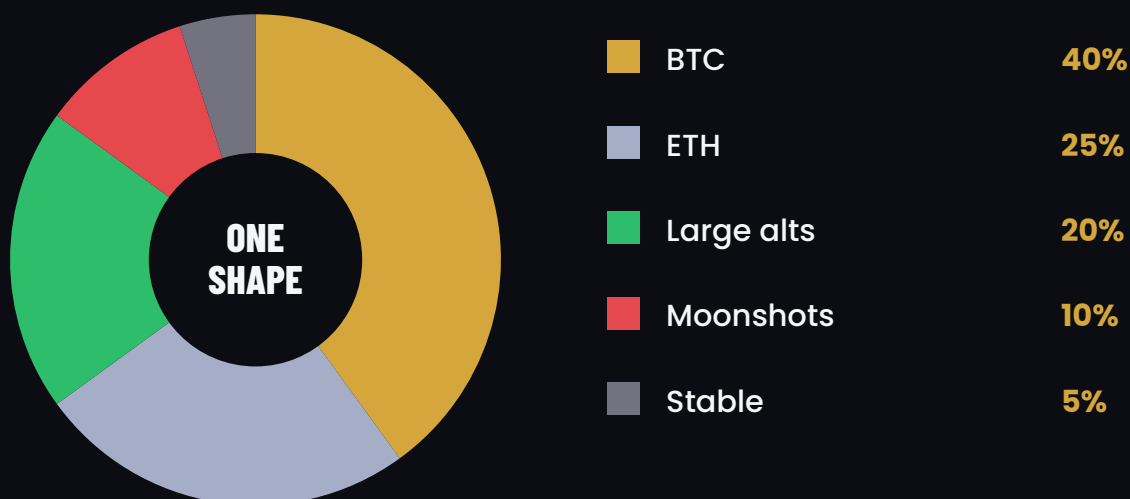

- ✗ Anyone asking your seed phrase to "claim" is stealing from you
- ✗ Never pay a fee to receive a drop. Real ones are free
- ✗ Farm with money-free tasks first, always

New here? Fresh airdrop farming guides drop free in the room, step by step, as they open.

This week's live farms are pinned in the room.

Portfolio balancing, the adult in the room.

An example shape for illustration, not a recommendation. Yours depends on you.

The quarterly loop that does the discipline for you

Every three months: whatever grew past its slice, trim back. Whatever shrank, top up. You are mechanically selling high and buying low without ever predicting anything.

Want eyes on yours? Portfolio clinics run in the room. Bring your split, a human walks it with you, step by step. That is the handholding, literally.

Clinic days are announced in the room.

AI met crypto. What is real.

The loudest corner of the market, so it deserves a sober page. Three things are real, one filter keeps you safe.

AI TOKENS

Projects selling compute, data or agent networks. Some are real businesses, many are a logo. The narrative moves in violent waves

AI AS YOUR ANALYST

Summarising whitepapers, explaining a chart, translating jargon. This is the quiet win, and it is free. We use it daily in the room

AI TRADING BOTS

Mostly sold on screenshots. If a bot printed money, it would not need your ₹2,999 subscription. Treat every one as marketing first

The three-question hype filter

Who pays for this, with what money? Does it work without the token? If the answer needs a diagram with lasers, it is a no.

AI narrative check-ins run in the room when the sector moves.

What goes wrong, so it does not.

✗ BOUGHT THE TOP OF A STORY

The coin everyone is shouting about is usually mid-move. Missing one is free. There is always a next one

✗ LEVERAGE BEFORE LESSONS

Multiplied losses end accounts in a week. Spot first, a year of it

✗ SENT TO THE WRONG CHAIN

Match network AND address on every withdrawal. Test with a small amount first

✗ TRUSTED A STRANGER WITH A PLAN

Guaranteed-return DMs, "account managers", romance + investing. All of it is theft with better fonts

One rule under all four: size every position so that being completely wrong is an education, not an emergency.

The India page.

30% flat tax on crypto gains, no slab benefit

1% TDS deducted on most sells above thresholds

0 loss offset: losses cannot reduce other income

Three numbers decide the whole Indian picture. They make churning expensive and patience cheap, which happens to be the strategy this playbook teaches anyway. Keep every trade in your one-line journal, file under Schedule VDA.

Exchanges serving India must register with FIU-IND. The ones we recommend to Indian members are registered. Full detail, kept current: blocknbull.xyz/crypto-tax-india-schedule-vda

Tax questions get sane answers in the room, not panic.
